Is white tiger movie based on a true story

The White Tiger

The White Tiger, already screening on theatres since January 13, is set to release on Netflix today. While author Aravind Adiga’s novel by the same name became a Man Booker Prize bestseller in 2008, wiping clean the Indian literary scene, will the movie directed by Ramin Bahrani do justice to its righteous legacy? We’re counting on it. Just like every year, 2021 promises prosperity, hope, and resilience. And like every year, it is also the year to contemplate the past year and the lessons we learnt. The pandemic paved the way for many layers of our society, both good and bad. Though the ugly truth that stared us in the face was the quite terrifying inequality in this democracy. Nothing new, but it came like a tornado and a revelation calling for a much-needed revolution. ALSO READ: Everything about Madam Chief Minister – story, cast & more Real story of The White Tiger movie: To cope and better understand the world around us in quarantine, people turned to books — from Orwell to Huxley to Harari — books that hold a mirror to our past, present, and future. Indian-Australian writer Aravind Adiga’s 2008 debut novel did the same by humorously exhibiting the trials and tribulations of a man whose life was hanging by a thread called caste. The White Tiger is a retrospective narration of Balram Halwai’s (belonging to a sweet-maker caste in India) life from rags to riches. But unlike a typical rags-to-riches motivational tale, this story takes us into the dark side of the human psyche, and the choices people have to make to achieve success in an unequal society. More than penury, it is the caste inequality that the book underlines through its lucid prose. What to expect from the Netflix film The White Tiger: Movie Cast - In Ramin Bahrani’s film adaptation, we expect nothing less than perfection, as it is coming from the director of Chop Shop, Plastic Bag, Fahrenheit 451, among others. The White Tiger stars Adarsh Gourav as Balram Halwai, Rajkummar Rao as Ashok, and Priyanka Chopra Jonas as Pinky Madam — who is also the executive producer along with Ava DuVernay and Mukul Deora. The story revolves around Balram Halwai, a driver to Ashok and Pinky. Halwai faces derogatory treatment daily but feels it’s the prerogative of the rich to behave the way they do. The story tests his patience and maintains the climax to be his breaking point. QUICK READ: Real story of Mismatched series on Netflix The White Tiger is an open-ended novel that leaves the reader juggling between right and wrong. Warning: This post contains spoilers for The White Tiger on Netflix. Despite its dramatic aesthetics and larger-than-life moments, the story at the heart of Netflix’s new drama, The White Tiger, doesn’t seem that far from reality. Set in modern-day India, the film follows a poor man named Balram Halwai (Adarsh Gourav), who uses his wit and charm to become a driver for a wealthy landlord’s son, Ashok (Rajkummar Rao) and his wife, Pinky (Priyanka Chopra Jonas). However, after realizing how obedience and “goodness” can be used against you, and how they won’t necessarily help you get ahead, he changes his tack (for better or for worse) to turn his life around.It’s a classic rags-to-riches story, but without its navetvé — that is to say, more Parasite than Slumdog Millionaire. However, despite exploring the very real issues of class and virtue, the story itself is entirely fictional. The White Tiger is an adaptation of the 2008 fiction novel of the same name by author Aravind Adiga. That year, the book was a New York Times bestseller and won the Man Booker Prize. Even though the plot and characters are made up, Adiga has said he was inspired by “young men he met” as he traveled around India.Some have pointed out, however, that the White Tiger story does share some similarities with a real-life incident that occurred. In 2015, massively famous Indian actor Salman Khan was arrested for a hit-and-run that killed one homeless person and injured three others. When the fatal accident first occurred in 2002, Khan’s driver, Ashok Singh, initially testified that he was the one at the wheel, but was later charged for perjury. Khan pled not to be true, and Khan was arrested. The situation is strangely similar to details in the book and film, but it hasn’t been confirmed or denied by Adiga. And although fictional, the movie’s prevalent concepts of upward mobility deliberately mirror aspects of the Indian culture. With a number of references to the Indian caste system which has transformed into today’s classism, the storyline in The White Tiger can feel true to some of its viewers, as Halwai navigates escaping his reality. In the novel, Adiga says people who escape caste are as rare as the white tiger. “How many times has it been that you’ve driven past a homeless person or a homeless shelter and not thought about it?” Chopra told USA Today, detailing the concepts of the film. “Class disparity is what this movie is talking about, and that is super-universal...The majority of the world lives in very harsh circumstances.” This content is created and maintained by a third party, and imported onto this page to help users provide their email addresses. The drama takes place over the three days in 1991 as the British royal family spends the Christmas holidays at Sandringham, the Queen’s country retreat in Norfolk. Diana realizes that her marriage to Prince Charles has unraveled and reevaluates the direction her life has taken. Director Larraín describes the film as “a fable from a true story.” Watch NowKing Richard is the story of Richard Williams, father of legendary tennis champions Venus and Serena Williams, at the very start of their careers. The Williams sisters were heavily involved in the making of the film—they wanted to make sure their father’s was depicted accurately. Will Smith, who plays Richard, also wanted to make sure he got it right, saying when the film premiered, “I knew I wanted to show a father protecting a daughter... to the world.” Watch NowKenneth Branagh’s moving semi-autobiographical drama Belfast is based in part on Branagh’s own childhood in the Northern Irish capital. It follows 9-year-old Buddy as his working-class Protestant family lives through The Troubles, and features the August 1969 riots, when a group of Protestant loyalists attacked Catholics. Branagh was born in 1960 in Belfast, and like Buddy, was been 9 years old in 1969. Like Buddy, his family, too, moved to England to escape The Troubles. Watch NowIn 18th-century England, Queen Anne (Olivia Colman) is on the throne. Lady Sarah (Rachel Weisz) and her cousin Abigail Masham (Emma Stone) both vie to be Anne’s favorite. Queen Anne was, in all likelihood, interested in women—and the film centers on a lesbian love triangle. The Favourite is based on a largely true story. Sarah Churchill, the eventual Duchess of Marlborough, was indeed childhood friends with then-Princess Anne. The nature of their relationship is subject to interpretation, but Sarah did really threaten to blackmail Anne with their letters. And Abigail Masham did work her way up to be a woman of the bedchamber for Queen Anne, and ultimately supplanted Sarah as the monarch’s favorite. Watch NowDirected by Spike Lee, BlackKkKlansman tells the true story of Ron Stallworth (John David Washington), the first Black detective in Colorado Springs, Colorado, who infiltrates the Ku Klux Klan and begins regular conversations with KKK leader David Duke. He recruits his Jewish coworker, Flip Zimmerman (Adam Driver), to impersonate him for the in-person meetings. It’s based on a true story, and only dramatizes it slightly—his coworker wasn’t Jewish, and his actual investigation occurred between 1978 and 1979, though the film is set in 1972. Watch NowIn this moving film, Maria Altmann (Helen Mirren), an elderly Jewish refugee, takes on the Austrian government with the help of lawyer Randy Schoenberg (Ryan Reynolds) to recover a painting that belongs to her family. In flashbacks, we see a young Maria (Tatiana Maslany) as she attempts to escape Nazi-occupied Austria.The Woman in Gold is based on the true story surrounding Gustav Klimt’s iconic painting of Adele Bloch-Bauer. Portrait of Adele Bloch-Bauer I. Altmann’s aunt was Adele Bloch-Bauer, and the painting was stolen by Nazis in Vienna just before the start of World War II. In real life, Altmann took her legal battle to the Supreme Court of the United States, which ruled on the case Republic of Austria v. Altmann (2004), allowing Altmann to proceed with civil action against Austria. The painting is now displayed at the Neue Galerie in New York City. Watch NowThe Irishman is based on a true story of mob hitman and World War II veteran Frank “The Irishman” Sheeran. Clocking in at three and a half hours, this epic Netflix film by Martin Scorsese centers on Sheeran (Robert De Niro) as he looks back on the secrets he kept as a loyal member of the Bufalino crime family. Sheeran, initially a truck driver, becomes involved with mobster Russell Bufalino (Joe Pesci) and Teamster Jimmy Hoffa (Al Pacino). According to The Irishman, Sheeran murdered Hoffa—but Hoffa’s disappearance on July 30, 1975, is still unsolved. Watch Now1. Tonya is loopy, based on actual events—the life of figure skater Tonya Harding and her connection to the 1994 attack on her skating rival Nancy Kerrigan. Starring Margot Robbie as the titular Tonya, the film traces her rise in the figure skating world and the sabotage of Nancy Kerrigan. Tonya’s ex-husband Jeff Gillooly (Sebastian Stan)’s friend Shawn Eckardt (Paul Walter Hauser) is behind the attack on Kerrigan, and the movie tries to unpack whether or not Tonya knew. Watch NowLin-Manuel Miranda’s directorial debut tells the story of playwright Jonathan Larson (played by Andrew Garfield). Larson, an American composer and lyricist best known for Rent, died the day of Rent’s first Off-Broadway. The film, however, does not cover his death—but is based on the stage musical of the same name by Larson, a semi-autobiographical work about Larson writing a musical. Watch NowBefore Supreme Court Justice Ruth Bader Ginsburg was the “Notorious RBG,” she was a young lawyer fighting for equal rights. On the Basis of Sex, written by the late Justice’s nephew Daniel Stiepleman, stars Felicity Jones as Ginsburg and focuses on the case Moritz v. Commissioner. In the case, the United States Court of Appeals for the Tenth Circuit “held that discrimination on the basis of sex constitutes a violation of the Equal Protection Clause of the United States Constitution.” Armie Hammer played Ginsburg’s beloved husband Marty, and RBG saw the film multiple times because “she gets Marty back for a couple hours.” Watch Now One Night in Miami... is a fictionalized account of a February 1964 meeting of Malcolm X (Kingsley Ben-Adir), Muhammad Ali (Eli Goree), Jim Brown (Aldis Hodge), and Sam Cooke (Leslie Odom Jr.). Directed by Regina King, the film is based entirely on true events—the four men really did spend time together one night, after Cassius Clay (later Muhammad Ali) beat Sonny Liston in Miami. “I was a journalist in my former life, and this was just a paragraph in a book that I’d been reading on the intersection between sports and the Civil Rights Movement.” Kemp Powers, who wrote the screenplay for the film, explained, “There was one paragraph in the book that mentioned that the night Cassius Clay beat Sonny Liston, February 25, 1964, he went back to Malcolm X’s hotel room with his friends, Malcolm, Sam Cooke, and Jim Brown. And the next morning is when he announced to the world that was in the nation of Islam. So that was like, whoa! Could you imagine that conversation these men must have had?” Watch NowKathryn Bigelow’s 2012 masterwork is a gripping action film depicting the decade-long CIA manhunt for Osama bin Laden following the 9/11 terrorist attacks. While Jessica Chastain’s character is a fictional CIA operative meant to be a composite of various agents who worked on the case, all the events in the movie are very much real. Watch NowInspired by American savant Laurence Kim Peek, Rain Man tells the story of car dealer Charlie Babbitt (played by Tom Cruise), who discovers that his recently deceased (and estranged) father left his $3 million fortune to the mental institution that his brother—who he never knew—lives. Babbitt is initially motivated by the money, so checks his brother Raymond out of the institution to return to LA, only to embark on a life-changing road trip, where the two brothers form an incredible bond. Watch NowBased on Elizabeth Gilbert’s memoir of the same name, Eat Pray Love chronicles Gilbert’s post-divorce journey around the world, where she embarks on the “search for everything,” from indulging in Italy’s culinary delights to mastering prayer in India. Watch NowBased on the true story of Chris Gardner, a homeless father who raised his son while aspiring to be—and eventually became—a stock broker. The Pursuit of Happyness is a heart-wrenching film that details how this one man battled with losing his home, navigating a new career, and keeping his son in good spirits amidst the chaos of life. Watch NowBased on Michael Lewis’s 2003 book, Moneyball tells the story of how the Oakland A’s general manager Billy Beane (played Brad Pitt), joins forces with Ivy Leaguer Peter Brand (played by Jonah Hill) to transform the struggling team despite its limited budget. By using a “sabermetric” approach to scouting players (basically shifting focus to cold hard statistics), the two pull together an underdog team of game winners. Watch NowAs one of the most classic sports movies of its era, Raging Bull was adapted from Jake LaMotta’s memoir, Raging Bull: My Story, and details the life of an angry-yet-gifted boxer as he rises to fame, falls in love, and battles with his internal demons. Watch NowThis Best Picture-winning film also brought Colin Firth the Best Actor Oscar for his complex portrayal of King George VI. Unexpectedly ascending the throne after his brother abdicates, the King is forced to find a solution for his life-long stutter with the help of an unconventional speech therapist (played by Geoffrey Rush). Watch NowBased on the memoir by Baroness Karen von Blixen (also known as Isak Dinesen), the movie tells the story of a Danish aristocrat who buys a coffee plantation in Kenya, where she falls in love with an American big-game hunter played by Robert Redford. This Best-Picture winner has sumptuous scenery, Meryl Streep doing an accent, and, well, Robert Redford. Watch NowThis feel good comedy starring Amy Adams and Meryl Streep is based on Julie Powell’s daily blog, where she documented her attempt to recreate each of Julia Child’s recipes from her cookbook “Mastering The Art Of French Cooking” (all 524 of them). Foodies and aspiring home cooks alike will love this upbeat classic. Watch NowBased on the life of music legend Ray Charles, the film follows Charles (in an Oscar-winning performance by Jamie Foxx) as he makes his way in the music industry, overcoming racism and discrimination against his blindness to become a hit. But fame isn’t without its drawbacks, and Charles must confront his own demons to ensure that his star doesn’t burn out before its time. Watch NowBased on Cheryl Strayed’s memoir, Wild: From Lost to Found on the Pacific Crest Trail, and starring Reese Witherspoon, Wild tells the story of the author, who, after a series of losses and struggles, from the death of her mother (played by Laura Dern) to the crumbling of her marriage, decides to embark on a journey of self-discovery by hiking 1,100 miles of the Pacific Crest Trail. Watch NowIn a rare dramatic role for comedy icon Melissa McCarthy—for which she was nominated for an Oscar—she plays the real-life Lee Israel, a writer struggling with alcoholism, financial trouble, and a string of career failures, who resorts to forging letters from deceased authors in order to make ends meet. The film is based on Israel’s confessional memoir of the same name. Watch NowFernando Meirelles’s biographical drama takes viewers behind the walls of the Vatican, telling the story of how Pope Benedict and Pope Francis had to come together to create a new vision for the modern Catholic Church. Watch Now A skilled con man and forger, 17-year-old Frank Abagnale, Jr. (Leonardo DiCaprio) becomes the most successful fraudster in the U.S. Pursued by FBI Agent Carl Hanratty (Tom Hanks), Abagnale has to resort to increasingly desperate gambits to stay one step ahead of the law. Watch NowA reimagining of Shakespeare’s “Henriad” plays. The King tells the story of Henry, Prince of Wales, who is crowned King Henry V after his father and brother (the intended heir to the throne) both die. While King Henry spent most of his days drinking and fooling around—with a general disregard for the war policies of his father — once crowned, he is determined to be nothing like his father. Watch NowThis 2001 biographical drama is based on the life of Nobel Prize-winning mathematician and economist John Nash (and inspired by the Pulitzer-winning book of the same name by Sylvia Nasar). Russell Crowe plays the brilliant Nash, whose rising career and stardom is at risk of being derailed by his own personal demons. A Beautiful Mind won four Academy Awards, for Best Picture, Best Director, Best Adapted Screenplay, and Best Supporting Actress (Jennifer Connelly). Watch NowThis Clint Eastwood-directed drama stars Bradley Cooper as real-life Navy SEAL Chris Kyle, who was the deadliest sniper in U.S. military history with 255 kills. But his battleground acuity—he did four tours in the Iraq War—inevitably took a heavy toll on his personal and family life, eventually leading to tragedy. Watch NowA wealthy racehorse owner, a boxer-turned-jockey, and a dedicated trainer work together to turn a long-shot horse into victory in Deppression era America in this adaptation of one of the most successful thoroughbreds in American history. Watch Now Katherine Johnson, Dorothy Vaughan, and Mary Jackson fight widespread, systematic discrimination to continue their work as human computers at NASA in the 1960s, playing a vital—and previously unused—role in the effort to send astronauts into space. Watch NowCentered on the final period of Abraham Lincoln’s life as he attempts to guide a nation torn by Civil War and ensure the passage of the 13th Amendment to ban slavery, this Steven Spielberg film stars Daniel Day-Lewis in an Academy Award-winning turn as the doomed president. Watch NowAva DuVernay directed this historical drama that is based on the 1965 voting rights marches from Selma to Montgomery led by Martin Luther King Jr., John Lewis, and Hosea Williams, and which led to the passage of the Voting Rights Act. Watch NowOne of the most iconic Queens of all time serves as the subject of this historical drama. Cate Blanchett earned a Best Actress Oscar nomination for her performance as Elizabeth I as she grew from a young princess caught in a succession struggle to a legendary monarch with the help of the master spy, Sir Francis Walsingham (Geoffrey Rush), her secret lover (Joseph Fiennes), and her own iron will. Watch NowWhat could have been a tedious procedural is instead a gripping ensemble thriller about a team of Boston Globe investigative reporters who uncover the decades-long effort by the Catholic church to suppress information about scores of abuse charges against priests. Watch Now Businessman and Nazi party member Oskar Schindler works to save innocent lives and protect the Jewish workers that staff his factory during World War II. Watch NowBased on the play by Peter Morgan, which was in turn inspired by real events, this Oscar-nominated drama pits TV personality David Frost (Michael Sheen) against former president Richard Nixon (Frank Langella) in a series of televised, on-one interviews that Nixon hopes to use to rehabilitate his reputation in a post-Watergate world, while Frost tries to ferret out a news-making story that could revamp his career. Watch Now A story of historic malevolence and heroic survival, 12 Years a Slave portrays the cruelty of slavery in the South in the years before the Civil War through the eyes of a free black man who is kidnapped and sold into bondage. Watch Now An adaptation of the biographical Wiseguy by Nicholas Pileggi, Goodfellas chronicles the life of young Mafia mobster Henry Hill as he ruthlessly climbs his way to the top, oblivious to the effects his actions have on others and on himself. Watch NowA towering performance by Philip Seymour Hoffman defines this film about Truman Capote, the author of Breakfast at Tiffany’s, as he sets out to write a piece for the New Yorker about the brutal murder of a family in Kansas. He is accompanied by his good friend Harper Lee (author of To Kill a Mockingbird) for the project that would eventually become In Cold Blood. Watch NowEddie Murphy plays Rudy Ray Moore, the late comedian and “Godfather of Rap” who rose to fame in the 70s for his alter ego, Dolemite. The film charts his ascent from struggling artist to the widely influential figure he became—Snoop Dogg once said, “without Rudy Ray Moore, there would be no Snoop Dogg.” Watch NowHugh Jackman and Allison Janney star in this true story tale about the largest public school embezzlement in U.S. history that took place in a Tony Long Island suburb. Jackman plays Frank Tassone, a charismatic superintendent who, with his associate Pamela Gluckin (Janney), stole $11.2 million from the school budget to finance a Park Avenue apartment, trips to Vegas, expensive suits and cars, and plastic surgery, among other things. Watch NowBased on the viral 2015 New York Magazine piece by Jessica Pressler, Hustlers tells the story about a group of strippers who enrich themselves by drugging and stealing from the rich men who frequent their club. At the very least, watch for J.Lo, who delivers the absolute best performance of her career. Watch NowBased on the eponymous memoir by Bryan Stevenson, the lawyer, social justice activist, and founder of the Equal Justice Initiative, Just Mercy is about a young Stevenson who goes to Alabama to help those who can’t afford proper legal representation. He meets Walter McMillian, an African-American man on death row for the murder of a white woman, which he did not commit. The film, with its A-list cast (Michael B. Jordan as Stevenson, Jamie Foxx as McMillian), depicts Stevenson’s struggle with deep South racism and a problematic criminal justice system as he fights to exonerate McMillian. Watch NowBased on the autobiographies of Johnny Cash, this film follows the country musician (Joaquin Phoenix) from his youth through his ascent to stardom, and his struggles with drugs, infidelity, and guilt over the childhood death of his brother. It’s only with the help of June Carter (Reese Witherspoon, in an Oscar-winning performance) and her family that Cash is finally able to turn his life around. Watch NowDespite grim warnings, two dogged reporters investigate a connection between a White House staff member and the attempted 1972 burglary of the Democratic Party Headquarters at Watergate, with the help of a mysterious source. Their reporting ultimately leads to the resignation of President Nixon. Watch NowInspired by the 1970s FBI ABSCAM investigation, American Hustle tells the story of two con men on a sting operation in New Jersey. From the dance moves to the double-crossing, the hustle of crime might bring everyone’s world crashing down. Watch Now United 93 recounts the events of September 11, 2001 as they took place on United Airlines Flight 93, one of four planes seized by Al-Qaeda terrorists. The film, which makes use of real 911 calls and other audio, follows the passengers as they decide to take action. Flight 93 was the only plane not to hit its intended target, but instead went down in a field in Pennsylvania. Watch NowChilly aristocrat Claus von Bülow is convicted of the attempted murder of his wife, wealthy American socialite Sunny von Bülow, in 1979, but after hiring super lawyer Alan Dershowitz (upon whose book this movie is based), von Bülow’s conviction is overturned and he is later acquitted. This story is simultaneously a saga of wealth and betrayal—which earned Jeremy Irons an Oscar for Best Actor—and a story of the American court system and the fundamental rights of all who stand accused of a crime. Watch NowBased on the Apollo 13 lunar mission in 1970, Ron Howard’s film follows the story of three astronauts desperately struggling to bring their ship back into Earth’s orbit after an oxygen tank explodes, threatening their survival. Watch Now Based on the memoir of fraudulent stockbroker Jordan Belfort, The Wolf of Wall Street makes crime look fun (or at least exhilarating) as Martin Scorsese’s film follows the young broker’s hedonistic lifestyle of sex, drugs, and white-collar crime. Watch Now Starring Mark Ruffalo, Anthony Edwards, Robert Downey Jr., and Jake Gyllenhaal, this twisty, disconcerting mystery-thriller follows the investigation into the identity of the infamous 1960s Zodiac killer in San Francisco. Watch Now When Hutu military forces initiate a campaign of ethnic cleansing against the Tutsi minority in Rwanda, hotel owner Paul Rusesabagina struggles to protect Tutsi refugees and his wife as the violence around them escalates into what is now known as the Rwandan genocide. Watch NowIn The Farewell, writer-director Lulu Wang dramatizes a true story from her own life: when her grandmother was given weeks to live, her whole family reunited to see her one last time. The catch? Her grandma had no idea she was ill. Watch NowThere’s been shortage of debate about exactly how closely this drama, about the rise of Facebook, sticks to the facts, but this collaboration between screenwriter Aaron Sorkin and director David Fincher nonetheless taps into the intrigue and ingenuity that have become synonymous with the social media giant. Watch Now An adaptation of Wladyslaw Szpilman’s autobiography, The Pianist follows a glamorous Jewish musician who is forced into the Warsaw Ghetto, separated from his family, and made to hide in various locations in the city’s ruins during the German occupation of Poland during World War II. Watch Now James Franco stars as hiker Aron Ralston in this heart-wrenching true story about an adventurer who finds himself trapped under a boulder for five days. Based on Ralston’s memoir, the film chronicles his agonizing decision to amputate his own arm in order to survive. Watch NowNaturalist Diane Fossey moved to Rwanda to study gorillas and devoted herself to studying their family groups—and advocating for their protection from poaching. Sigourney Weaver gives a tour-de-force (and Oscar-nominated) performance as the passionate and enraged Fossey, and the sumptuous scenes of Africa will make you fall in love with the great apes and weep at the tragic fate that seems to befall everyone. Watch Now Tough-talking Erin Brockovich becomes a clerk to a lawyer in a small California town, eventually becoming instrumental in building a case against the Pacific Gas and Electric Company of California in 1993. Watch Now Leonardo DiCaprio stars in this Academy Award-winning biopic of the enigmatically brilliant billionaire Howard Hughes, from his early years as a film director and aviation enthusiast to his downward spiral into the mental illness and phobia that would define the tycoon’s later years. Watch NowBased on the book by Jon Krakauer, Into the Wild tells the story of a Christopher McCandless, a recent Emory University graduate who gives up all of his material possessions and journeys alone out into the Alaskan wilderness. Watch NowThe Imitation Game charts how Alan Turing’s game-changing innovations helped the Allies win the war—then, tragically, shows his country would persecute him anyway. Watch NowThis serial killer drama becomes extra eerie once you realize it is based on a true story. Lost Girls, the film adaptation of the 2013 book of the same name, tells the story of a woman who takes investigations into her own hands after her daughter goes missing. The initial investigation leads police to discover the bodies of several sex workers, which are all thought to be linked. Watch NowThese days, Kumi Nanjani and Emily V. Gordon are a comedic power couple. But, as The Big Sick shows, they almost didn’t end up together at all. Nanjani and Gordon co-wrote this rom-com about the very real, very traumatic medical emergency that brought them together. Watch NowBased on the best-selling book by Michael Lewis, The Big Short tells the story of a small cadre who saw the 2008 financial crash coming. The acting is superb—what with Christian Bale, Steve Carell, Ryan Gosling, and Brad Pitt, how could it not be?—and the film manages to make the minutiae of Wall Street comprehensible, even interesting. Watch NowThe extraordinary life of Stephen Hawking is told from the perspective of his relationship—from falling in love at Cambridge, to getting married, to their eventual divorce—to Jane Wilde (the film is based on her memoir). Eddie Redmayne earned Best Actor Academy Award for his portrayal of the brilliant physicist, who defied all odds to become one of the most legendary figures in history. Watch NowHarvey Milk is a hero for the ages, and Milk tells his story with sensitivity and honesty. If you’re not familiar with Milk, one of America’s first openly gay elected officials, let this be your starting point; if you’re already a fan, celebrate his legacy with yet another rewatch. Extremely Wicked, Shockingly Evil, and Vile Watch NowAmong the list of infamous serial killers, Ted Bundy is often the first to come to mind. This crime thriller, starring Zac Efron as Bundy, chronicles the serial killer’s vicious crimes from the perspective of his girlfriend.
